by Liz Espo
Syndicated news press

The President hopes his new state housing projects will alleviate the growing stress middle class families are facing in finding affordable housing inthe bay area.. The president and vice president have bought up acres of decaying land all over the penninsula more than ten years ago hoping to one day develop what the called housing communities dedicated toward world peace and equality among the diverse ethnic, racial and religious factions of our fine communities. When asked about the benefits he would be personally recieving from these endeavors, he smiled, "don't worry about me, we're getting payed."

Among the President's many problems including the Middle East Freedom Wars that have eaten up eight years and $4 Trillion and the lives of 8,000 service men and women, are rumors of chronic narcatic abuse and turning rooms of the white house into brothels for Senators and Congressmen to secure votes for his many projects. Among the President's many accomplishments, he is said to be open about his many promiscuous relationships with White House interns, hunting blindfolded, and staging motorcycle races in the hallways of the White House. When asked how his behavior would effect his image around the world, he has repeatedly said "All you have to do to appease the world leaders is to get them drunk, get the laid and keep them asleep long enough before they know you've taken their money."

G8 leaders to meet over possible war issues

KTRU News

No one claimed it would be easy, but everyone is hoping Pakistan can keep it in their pants long enough for the world to avoid a thermonuclear war and its subsequent nuclear winter. When asked why we were considering an attack in these areas, the President remarked, "We're gonna put the fear of god back in these heathens and make sure they all love Jesus."

World leaders when asked for their reactions to this quote simply stood stunned with mouths agape, unable to speak. It would seem that zealotry of this magnitude is not as common in other areas, this reporter finds.
